Main idea :

- The overall objective of the project is to enable young male working in the tourist sector with particular “foreign language learning resistance” to establish their “enjoying language” by increasing their interest and uptake of foreign languages and to increase their participation in the life long learning society.

Aims:

- The project aims to make a useful addition to the training of tourism workers by adapting, testing, disseminating and mainstreaming language learning materials using informal learning still regarded as innovative or little known in many areas. The content of the languages taught will be related to work in tourism.
- A further aim is to form strategic networks, including employers, unions and providers of learning opportunities, which will advise, test, disseminate and mainstream the project results
- The methods and materials adapted will be transferred from the Love Language project, promoted in Austria.
